Matches and sets

1. Each match consists of two sets.

There must be a two points difference at the end of a match, but there is a limit: a match will be ended at 27-26.

Results for the ranking

3. Teams receive one match point for each set that is won.
4. If the match points lead to an ex aequo result, the balance decides: the points the teams scored themselves (in advance) minus the points their opponents scored (against).

If this result also is equal, the team with the most points in advance will win.
